KENTUCKY BLUEGRASSAPPEALING-RUGGED-ENDURING

- VIGOROUS
- RESISTS STRIPE SMUT
- EARLY GREENUP
- MODERATE DENSITY
- EXCELLENT MOWABILITY

Alley Cat originated from the cross of a maternal plant derived from Wildwood bluegrass and the paternal lineage of Baron bluegrass. Alley Cat is an all purpose variety that combines medium dark green color and semi compact growth habit with a broad spectrum of disease resistance, notably to stripe smut and powdery mildew.

Alley Cat exhibits excellent seedling vigor and rapidly establishes with a strong tillering system. Turf performance under stress and wear is very good. It mows cleanly at fairway levels and greens up comparatively early in spring. Alley Cat performs at normal to moderate levels of fertility in most soil types. It is suggested as a component in blends and mixtures intended for a variety of uses ranging from fairways roughs and sports areas to corporate and residential landscape to sod production.
